WILDCAT MEMORIES

A black and white photograph of a school hallway. The hallway is long and narrow, with lockers lining both sides. The floor is highly reflective, showing the overhead lights and the figures of students in the distance. The perspective is from one end of the hallway, looking down its length. The lighting is bright, coming from overhead fixtures. The overall tone is nostalgic and captures a common school scene.

Loyd H. Hoelscher
1961 - 1977

In Fond Memory Of Loyd

A man was he, who walked with us
And greeted our smile each day.
He let us know he cared for all
In his own, very special way.

But now, my friends, he's left this world
To meet his maker above.
He's fulfilled the will of God on earth,
and has shown his great love.

But we are here and still alive
And must go on without our friend;
For he was chosen to meet his peace,
So our hearts to him we lend.

We'll cherish the memories of him
For years to come.
We pray for strength for all who care
For our missed, loved one.

Death, we know, is a future life
Where Loyd is now at rest.
And as to him, we say goodbye,
We know he's finished his quest.

JEANINE BRANDT

We dedicate the 1976-77 Wildcat to Loyd Hoelscher, a dear friend to all of the Linn High student body. Loyd was active in various activities in the school system. He was a greenhand member of the FFA, Valentine King candidate, Junior Varsity Basketball member, and track team member. He received a B-team letter in basketball, and a varsity letter in track.

He also participated in the FHA fashion show.

Teachers Gain Recognition

Coach Bill Parker was named "Coach of the Year" by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. Coach led his team to state basketball finals for the second year. He resigned at the end of the school year to accept a coaching position with the Warrensburg Public Schools.

Mrs. Mabel Sohns taught in the Linn Public Schools for the past 16 years. Part of that time she was a special reading teacher. She retired at the end of the school year.

Mrs. Rose Pinet taught in Osage County for 37 years, 27 of those were spent in Linn's first grade. She also retired at the end of the school year.

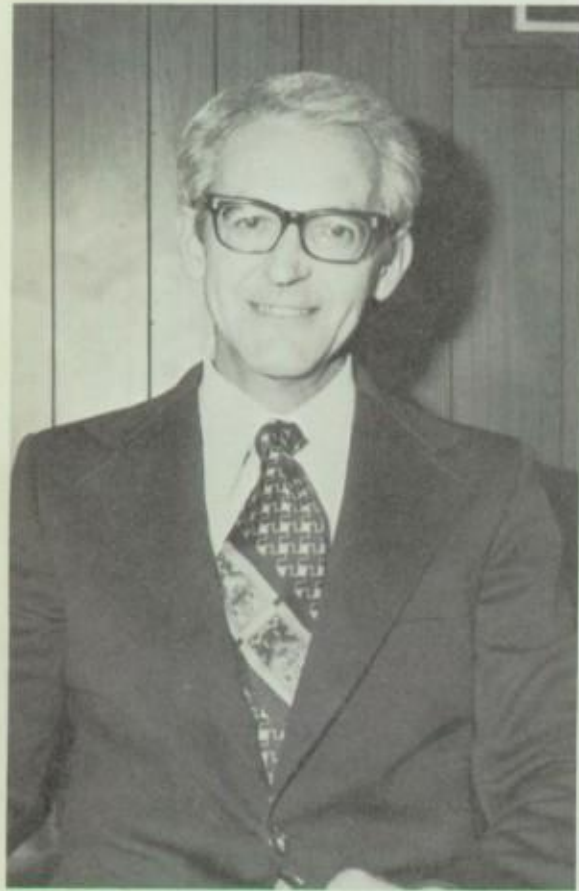

Miss Jane Johnson directed the Parity for the Arts program, a new, federally funded plan of art exposure for Linn High students.

Administration Puts It All Together

"The true test of our labors as students and teachers is whether we develop attitudes that allow us to be concerned about people. We must renew interest in man and his capabilities. The world needs more concern for the other person. During my two years in the Linn School System, I have worked with many quality educators—the best I have encountered in my twenty-five years in the field of education. I offer here a simple and humble 'thank you' to the people who have helped me as I have attempted to do my job."

Dr. E. R. Dalrymple, Superintendent

BOARD MEMBERS: Joseph Fick, Vice-President; Willis Early; John Koenigsfeld, Secretary; Harold Schulte, President; Joseph McCuskey; Eugene Plegge, Treasurer.

History Has New Ideas

TOP: Mr. Reginald Suggs and Mr. Larry Hunt show Mary Hout and Mary Herndon that the answers to the problems can be found in the book. MIDDLE: Mr. Larry Hunt teaches American History II, Sociology, Psychology, Geography, and Missouri History.

The history classes are taught by Mr. Terry Brautigam and Mr. Larry Hunt.

Some of the new classes offered were Economics and Geography.

Mr. Hunt's Sociology class visited the prison and Renz farm in Jefferson City. They also had two guest speakers. Attorney Ralph Voss spoke on divorce and an Osage County juvenile officer spoke on the duties of a juvenile officer. Mr. Hunt's Missouri History class toured Ravenwood, a mansion in Bunceton, Missouri.

Mr. Brautigam's history classes held a mock election in November. They set up booths and made posters to sway the campaign to the right man. Ford and Dole won in the Linn High election, but lost nationally.

TOP: Mr. Terry Brautigam teaches American History I, Economics, Contemporary Problems, and World History. Middle: Becky Boyce, Mr. Brautigam, Cindy Allen, Rita Backues, Imogene Hemeyer, and Renee Gelven prepare to vote in the mock election held by the history classes. The secret ballot booths were set up by the history classes and everyone voted in the morning before school. BELOW: Mike Shipley reports the news, weather, and sports at 11:30 on Sept. 21, 1976. The Mass Media and School Publications classes toured the KLIK radio station and Channel 13 in Jefferson City. The Mass Media classes were studying about radio and broadcasting, while the School Publications class was studying newswriting.

ABOVE: Mrs. Olive Haslag teaches Language Arts I, Language Arts II, and Communication & Composition. The Communication and Composition class prints the Walking Wild paper for the school, writes the news stories for the county papers, and produces the yearbook. It is all combined into one class. BELOW: Mrs. Sue Gelven teaches Language Arts IV, Language Arts III, Practical Language Arts, Mass Media, and Novels. The Mass Media and Novels class are each one semester classes.

English Makes Its Way Through

ABOVE: Mrs. Judy Stein, lives near Linn. She is a talented musician who sings and explains English ballads to the Language Arts IV class.

The English classes are headed by Mrs. Olive Haslag, Mrs. Sue Gelven, and Mrs. Carol Nichols.

They received new literature and grammar books this year.

Mrs. Haslag was given a larger room with tables and space to work on school publications. Her sophomores worked on research papers and they had book talks by a lady from the Thomas Jefferson Library.

A sophomore, Kathy Brinkmann, is a published author.

The Mass Media and School Publications classes visited the Channel 13 and KLIK radio stations. Mrs. Gelven's juniors traveled to Hannibal to study the background of Mark Twain.

Students Pursue Vocational Interests

The dictionary defines vocation as an occupation for which one is specially suited or qualified. At LHS students are able to experiment and find out which vocation is best suited for them and to learn more about it.

Mrs. Lila Chapman taught eight classes for the students who were interested in home economics.

Mr. William Walker taught industrial arts. Classes offered were drafting, metalworking, general shop, and woodworking.

The business department consisted of eight classes for the secretarial and management minded student. They were taught by Mrs. Mary Lou Broman and Mrs. Carol Nichols.

Mr. Charles Parkes taught six vocational agriculture classes ranging from Animal Science to Farm Power.

ABOVE: Mr. Rodney Mulvania will be teaching at the Tech School next year after five years of teaching math at LHS. Mr. Mulvania teaches Algebra I and II, geometry, physics, and college math. FAR ABOVE: Mr. Rodney Bossaller teaches functional math, Algebra I, and senior math. He also teaches a physical education class. This is Mr. Bossaller's second year at Linn. LEFT: Mr. Mulvania demonstrates conservation and momentum to his physics class by shooting a bullet into a block of wood.

Math And Science Use New Methods

The science classes have been traveling this year, seeing new places and things.

Trips were taken to the Chamois Power Plant, Central Electric Plant, and to the MU campus in Columbia.

New telescopes were purchased for the students studying the moon and stars.

The math department received six new calculators this year for use in the classroom.

Mrs. Doris Hessee will be leaving LHS after six years of teaching in the science department. This year, Mrs. Hessee taught Biology I and II, chemistry, anatomy, and physiology.

Music And Art Expand Horizons

BELOW: Mr. Bocklage, a rookie teacher at Linn High but not an amateur in his field, won several awards in the professional category for pastel and ink drawings.

ABOVE: Mr. Campbell spent the year working with the high school band, pep band, guitar class, and music theory class. He also began a jazz band.

The students in the music and art departments were greeted by two new faces, Mr. Campbell and Mr. Bocklage.

Mr. Campbell cooperated with Mrs. Waggonner in the music department to teach and prepare their respective classes for different concerts, clinics, and contests. They worked hard to make new additions like mixed chorus and jazz band a reality and a success.

Mr. Bocklage taught the arts and crafts class, Art I, Art II, and assisted with the Art Parity program. The art department itself saw new curriculum like ceramics, pinhole camera-photography and leather working.

ABOVE: Mrs. Nancy Waggonner taught girls chorus and a new addition to the music curriculum, mixed chorus.

BELOW: Mrs. Paula Bryan kept busy going from the junior high school to the elementary to the high school to teach her physical education classes.

ABOVE: Mr. Bill Parker, commonly known as "Coach," is the senior member of the physical education staff. He taught both the girls and boys at the high school level.

P.E. Is Action

The physical education program received a boost with the additions of a balance beam and a new 8' X 12' trampoline.

The trampoline sparked new interest in all of Coach Parker, Mrs. Bryan, and Mr. Bossaller's high school classes. It was also enthusiastically received by Mr. Sommerer's junior high classes.

The coaches put forth an effort each year to help improve and expand the physical education program.

With a record number of 54 members, the Linn Chapter of FFA have participated in several new activities this year.

A pool tournament was held in honor of FFA week. Fruit was sold as a money-making project, in addition to the pecan sales and the Barnwarming Dance. The group played basketball against other area teams.

John Deeken and George Frank received State Farmer Awards. Mr. Charles Parkes was awarded as Honorary Chapter Farmer by the group.

New Attractions Improve Barnwarming Scene

TOP RIGHT: The crowning is being looked upon by four of the candidates. TOP CENTER: Kaye Howard, escorted by Tom Wibberg, was one of the Senior candidates. ABOVE: The candidates representing the Freshman class were Brenda Sampson, escorted by Richard Schaefer, and Robin Sandbothe, escorted by Larry Henneke. Sharon Haslag, escorted by Randy Wolfe, and Kelly Rackers, escorted by Stanley Koenigsfeld, represented the Sophomore class. From the Junior class were Mary Lee Dudenhoeffer, escorted by Darrell Neuner, and Tracie Bower, escorted by Mark Brinkmann. MIDDLE: Paul Arbes is auctioning off baked goods presented by the candidates. BOTTOM LEFT: Doris Jaegers, the other Senior candidate, is announced Barnwarming Queen. BOTTOM RIGHT: Janice Neuner and Miriam Voss watch Paul Arbes auction off the baked goods.

With the smell of hay lingering throughout the school, the annual Barnwarming Dance was held Oct. 15 in the old gym. To make the barn scene, lanterns were strung across the ceiling; the traditional tunnel and coronation stand were made out of hay, and a calf was penned up in the corner.

The candidates were chosen the same as every other year. Two girls from each class were picked by the FFA members. For the first time, the candidates were each required to present a cake or a pie at the dance, and Paul Arbes auctioned it off.

Susie Bonnot returned to crown the new Barnwarming queen, which was Senior Doris Jaegers escorted by Paul Arbes.

The music for the dance was provided by "Touch."

They could be seen from a distance - a cloud of red and white figures jumping, yelling, and waving arms. They were heard cheering at good times; cheering even louder at bad times. They not only brought themselves to cheer on their teams, they brought their school spirit. They congratulated their teams in victory and stood behind them in defeat. We salute the Linn Pep Club of 1976-77 for keeping their spirit and that of classmates soaring the entire school year.

"Tis the season to be jolly" and for Kaye Howard it was. On Dec. 21, retiring queen Donna Ruetters crowned Kaye Homecoming Queen of Linn High School.

Coronation was held during halftime of the varsity game. Four alumni queens were recognized while the crowd anticipated the crowning. After the crowning the queen and her court watched the game from their platform decorated with Christmas wreaths.

The Wildcat team blasted the Chamois Pirates 62-33 adding more excitement to the night's activities.

A dance held after the game ended the night's excitement. Music was provided by "Century Sounds."

The students showed true school spirit by participating in the activities. The 1977 Homecoming will always be remembered as a great one.

Student Council Leads School

Student Council sponsored Valentine's Dance and Spring Dance.

This was the first year for student exchange day. Students from Linn switched with students from one of the surrounding schools for a day. It was an interesting experience for these students, and it helped them learn more about other schools.

Student Council arranged several assemblies and a talent show during the year.

With the contributions from other organizations, they purchased a stereo for the students to listen to during their lunch hour.

Elections for Student Council officers are held each year. Each candidate gives a campaign speech before the student body. The election results are announced at Spring Dance.

Dance Sets Mood For Sweethearts

Sweethearts, friends, singles, and teachers filled the gym to enjoy themselves at the annual Valentine's Dance held Feb. 19.

Showing up in semi-formal attire, the students eagerly anticipated the crowning of the 1977 Valentine's King and Queen.

The candidates consisted of two boys and two girls selected by classmates from the respective classes. Each student who attended the dance cast his vote as he entered the dance. This determined the selection of king and queen.

Excitement filled the gym when Dallas Roark and Kelly Rikard were crowned 1977 Valentine's King and Queen of LHS.

Music was provided by "Century Sounds." The dance was sponsored by Student Council and enjoyed by all.

The highlight of the night was the announcement of the 1977-78 student body president. Mark Kuster defeated Steve Sandbothe in the presidential election. Melissa Jost was installed as vice-president, Ann Dalrymple as secretary, and Charlotte Haslag as treasurer.

"I wish next year's Student Council the best of luck. This year's council did a fine job and I am proud of them. I'd like to thank the members and the student body for making it the best year ever."

This year's Future Homemakers of America had 138 members. The theme for the chapter was "Better, Healthier Babies." Several of the meetings were centered around this theme including the Formal Initiation at which Mrs. Kathy Dothage, county home economist on child and family development, spoke on prenatal care.

There were four main activities this year: Informal Initiation, Formal Initiation, Sadie Hawkins Dance, and Parent-Daughter Night. The financing of these activities was made possible through the fruit sales FHA took part in. A total of $250.18 was brought in.

The FHA officers would like to express their sincere thanks to their sponsor, Mrs. Chapman, without whom most of the activities would not have been possible.

FRESHMEN - Penny Backes, Karen Backues, Ronda Campbell, Laurie Cavender, Annabel Dudenhoeffer, Sherrie Dudenhoeffer, Darla Foster, Debbie Fowler, Evelyn Frank, Renee Gelven, Jeanne Grellner, Ruth Haselhorst, Rhonda Heet, Imogene Hemeyer, Loree Hoffman, Betty Maddox, Laura Masters, Jane Monroe, Janice Neuner, Vicky Oliver, Jennie Owens, Tonie Owens, Lee Ann Patterson, Linda Peters, Brenda Sampson, Julia Sydow, Vicky Thoenen, Joyce Tyree, Diane Voss, Miriam Voss, Darla Wolfe, Tammy Wolfe, Teresa Worrell.

Informal initiation began when freshmen girls dressed in bedroom attire appeared in school. Did they forget to get dressed? No, it was the FHA informal initiation. The freshmen girl had to comply to anything the seniors wanted. The day consisted of cleaning out lockers, carrying books, etc. The day ended with the final initiation held in the cafeteria that evening. Groups of freshmen presented skits in "honor" of the seniors. And to retaliate, the seniors involved the freshmen in group "consequences."

Formal initiation took a more serious outlook. The evening consisted of a banquet served by FFA. Kathy Dothage, home economist, presented films and discussed prenatal care. As each initiate took her solemn oath, she was presented with a long stem rose.

Main Street looked different to the students of LHS on the evening of April 2. That night Main Street was in the gym, lined with saloons, stores, barns, and farm animals, as the setting for the 1977 Sadie Hawkins Dance.

The students transformed into country folks and showed up in their jeans, overalls, and pigtails. The fellas were escorted by their gals. Luckily, Sadie Hawkins provides the opportunity for the girls to ask their favorite guy for a date.

The night was full of fun. The crowd anxiously awaited the crowning of Duke of Dogpatch. When "Slick" Mark Fick escorted by "Sassy" Sheila Matthews was crowned Duke of Dogpatch, the excitement reached a climax.

"Disco Frog" provided the music.

National Honor Society Serves Community

National Honor Society has served the community in various ways this past year, including a Veterans Day program with the Gateway Singers, a coat check during ball games, collecting for mental health, and showing new students around school. The annual initiation was held April 4.

Library Club Helps Out

Linn High Library Club was once again affiliated with Epsilon Beta, a statewide library organization. They attended the convention held in St. Charles.

The group participated in fruit sales for money, and as usual, provided student help in the library. The Missouri Council of the Arts provided artwork monthly in the library.

A tape file and newspaper clippings of the basketball season was also kept.

As an extra service, the group set up audio-visual equipment for teachers.

Joint Publications Staff Covers LHS Life

A lot goes into making a yearbook and printing a paper. It takes time and effort, hurried typing, and a sincere wish to do something productive.

This year the staff of Walkin' Wild and Wildcat 77 has all that and much more.

The camera was always busy and someone was always being interviewed. Stories were written and edited, and then turned in for a grade.

The greatest reward is a smile because someone knows you tried, or self-satisfaction in seeing your page in the yearbook.

This year there were enough interested boys to start a new chorus in the music department.

The new Mixed Chorus along with the Girls Glee Club performed at various school and public functions. The time involved in practice proved successful for both choruses.

The chrouses participated in a Christmas Concert, Veterans Day Program, Fine Arts Festival, Conference Choral Clinic, LHS Talent SHow and Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service during the year.

Band Takes On New Sounds

Jazz Band is just one of the new happenings in the music department. The band was formed in March and has ten members.

Along with a new instructor, several pieces of equipment were added.

The pep band set the school song to music, adding spirit.

Some of the honors the band members received this year included five students participating in the OMMC All-Conference Band, and Stacy Loeb making the All-State Band.

Fine Arts Show Presented

Linn High's Art and Music Departments displayed their various talents in the annual spring Fine Arts Show. Held in the Linn Fieldhouse, the show was different than the past in that there were only a few short pieces presented by Mixed and Girls Choruses and the Jazz Ensemble, in addition to art demonstrations and displays.

Weaving, batik, and ceramics pieces were on display along with demonstrations by students. Other displays were photography, block printing, macrame, collages, and papier maché.

Seventh and eighth grade art, Art I, Art II, arts and crafts, and first year program, Art Synthesis, participated under the instruction of Miss Jane Johnson, Mrs. Rae Shoop, and Mr. Chris Bocklage. The Choruses were directed by Mrs. Nancy Waggoner. The Jazz Ensemble was conducted by Mr. Jim Campbell.

On Oct. 23, the Seniors proudly presented "Headin' For A Weddin'."

The curtain rose on a hillbilly scene reflecting a cold February afternoon. Homer Hollowbone was writing a love letter to Melissa Dugan, a debutante whose picture he had seen in a newspaper. He had told her he was rich and well-educated. He actually lived in a shack with his dirty, shifty family.

Gracie May grabbed the letter and read it aloud. Everyone thought it was a courtin' letter to Bertha Blairhouse. Then Bertha and her family along with Melissa and her friends appeared to take refuge from the storm. While Homer was ducking Bertha, he was also trying to hide his identity from Melissa. Melissa found the truth as well as revenge as Homer found himself engaged to Bertha . . . until Gracie May told Bertha that Homer suffered periods when he thought he was a dog. With this a feud was started. The play ended as Isabel Todd, Melissa's friend, realized the wonderful talent of Gloria, Paw's pet skunk. They then all moved to the city and became rich.

FBLA Expands And Succeeds

Linn Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America received many awards at the District II Conference held at the Tri-County Technical School in Eldon. Twelve out of the 19 members entering the district contest placed in the top five.

Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Broman, sponsors, commented, "We're really proud of all the Linn students who went. This was our second year to enter contests, and we feel that they did very well."

The Linn Chapter, formed in 1975, doubled its membership to 69 this year. The group sponsored various activities such as FBLA week, an ice skating party, a field trip to State Farm Insurance and to the University of Missouri processing center, and a Christmas party for the State School No. 65.

Profits were received from fruit sales, the typing service, the supply store, and Colgate-Palmolive labels.

Each month an outstanding member was chosen by the sponsors and the officers and recognized as the member of the month.

They also participated in the eighteenth annual Missouri FBLA State Leadership Conference.

What do cheerleaders do to prepare for basketball? This year's cheerleaders attended camp at Marshall, Missouri for one week where they learned jumps, pom pon routines, chants, cheers, and more.

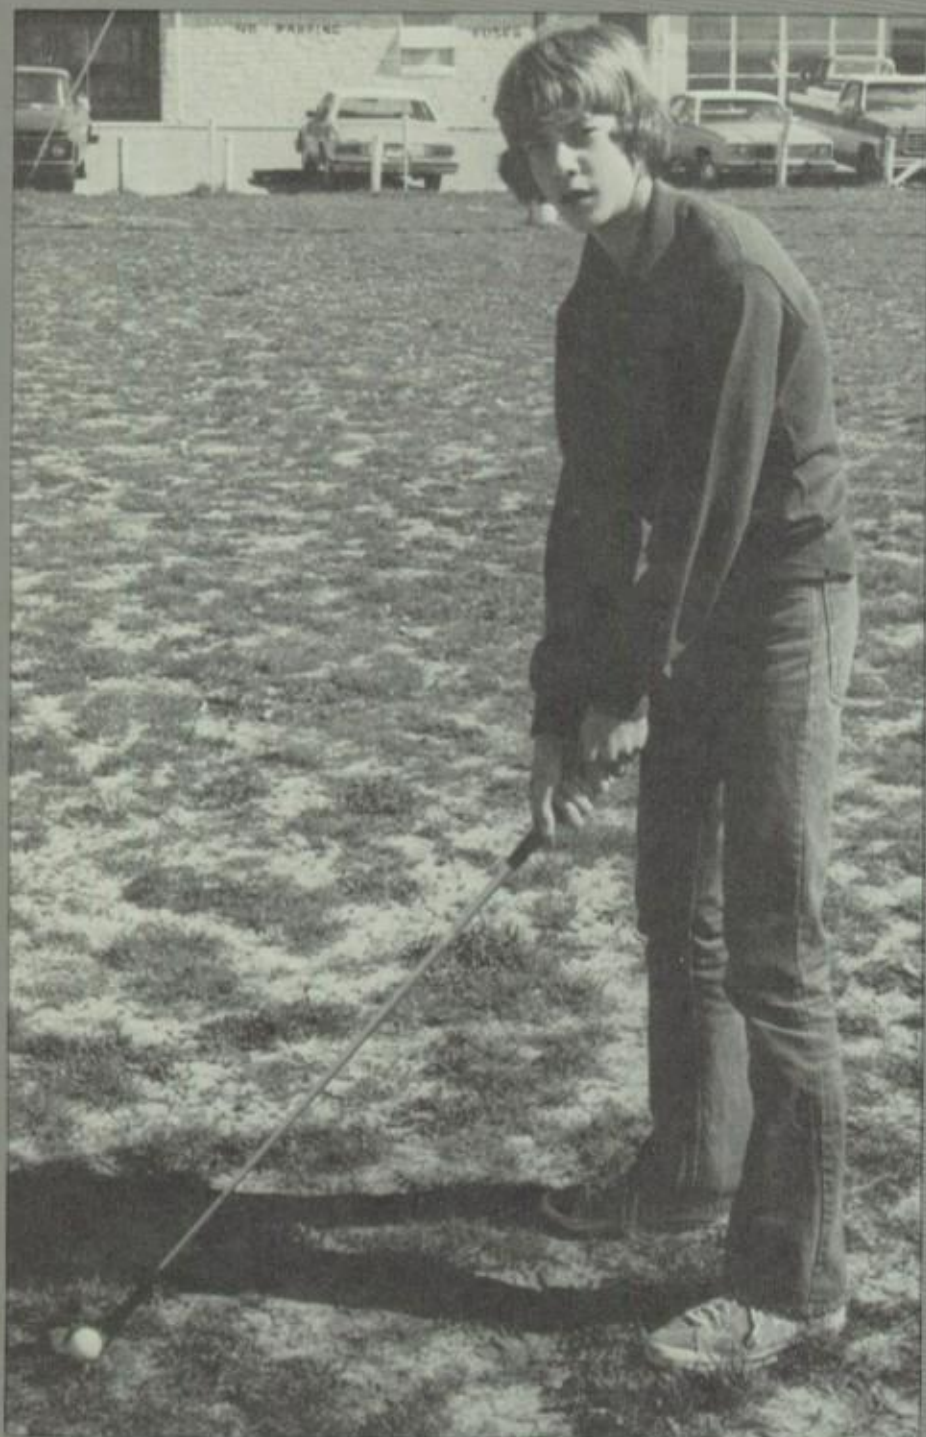

At camp, the varsity squad earned four SUPERIOR ribbons and one excellent ribbon. The junior varsity received one SUPERIOR ribbon, one excellent ribbon, and three outstanding ribbons.

Spirit was shown throughout the year as pep rallies were held, lockers decorated, and signs and footprints were spread through the halls.

76-77 BASEBALL SEASON

The boys baseball team ended their season with a 3-3 record.

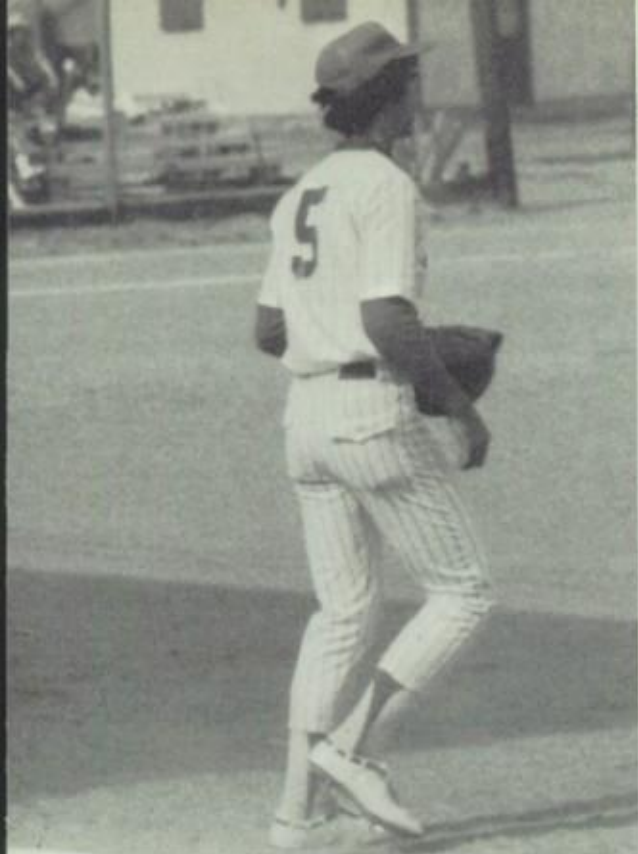

The Wildcats proved victorious over Belle, Bland, and Chamois, while suffering defeats to Fatima and Vienna.

They qualified for the playoffs but lost the first game to Fatima.

Jim Starr led the hitting for the Wildcats with a hot .571 hitting percentage.

The 1976-77 basketball season turned out to be the best season in the history of Linn High with a 30-2 record.

For the second year in a row the Wildcats went to the state tournament, but this time took second place in the boys class AA. The team followed up a third place finish in the 1975-76 season. After beating Cape Girardeau Notre Dame 70-65 in the semi-finals, the Wildcats fell to St. Joseph LeBlond 64-56 in the state championship game. Other highlights during the season were first place finishes in the conference, Capital City, and Linn tournaments.

The Wildcats scored a 70.3 average during the season, while holding their opponents to 43.

Three Wildcats received recognition through their basketball skills. Scott Sandbothe and brother Steve along with Jim Paschal were named to the OMMC all-conference squad. All three were also named to the all-district list. The Missouri Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association also selected Scott and Steve Sandbothe to be on the all-state list as well.

Coach Parker also received special recognition through his hard work and long hours as he received Coach of the Year honors.

Building A Future For Girls Basketball

The lady Wildcats improved their record for the third year in a row. They finished the 76-77 season with an 8-9 record taking consolation in the Belle tournament.

This year's team lacked experience since there were no seniors and only one junior. There were five sophomores and five freshmen. For the freshmen it was their first season ever for active competition since there is no seventh and eighth grade program for girls.

Jeanne McDaniel led in scoring with a 7.4 point average while Robin Sandbothe and Mary Livingston followed with 6.8 and 5.3 respectively. Janet Flanagan netted 4.7 points a game while Stacy Loeb pumped in 3.0 a game.

Coach Jackson said this about his team, "They made great strides toward building a future for girls basketball in Linn. I have worked with many teams over the years and I have never worked with a team with more interest, cooperation or a better attitude than these girls displayed."

Next year the future for the girls looks bright since everyone will be returning and with hard work they can look for another record setting year.

JV Basketball Gains Experience

The B-team is out of the spotlight most of the year and many people overlook the important role the B-team plays in basketball at Linn. The Junior Varsity provides young players with experience and a chance to improve their skills that they will eventually need when they play Varsity ball.

The Linn High B-team ended its 76-77 season with a 7-11 record. The Junior Varsity Wildcats took third place in the Chamois tournament and consolation in the Blair Oaks tournament.

This was the first year OMMC did not have a B-team conference. Sophomore Mark Brinkmann led in scoring as he netted 13.7 points a game. Jeff Wolfe and Danny Lenger helped the cause with their 6.3 and 5.5 averages respectively.

Golf: A Growing Sport At Linn High

Summary

Golf is in its second year at Linn High and it looks like it's here to stay.

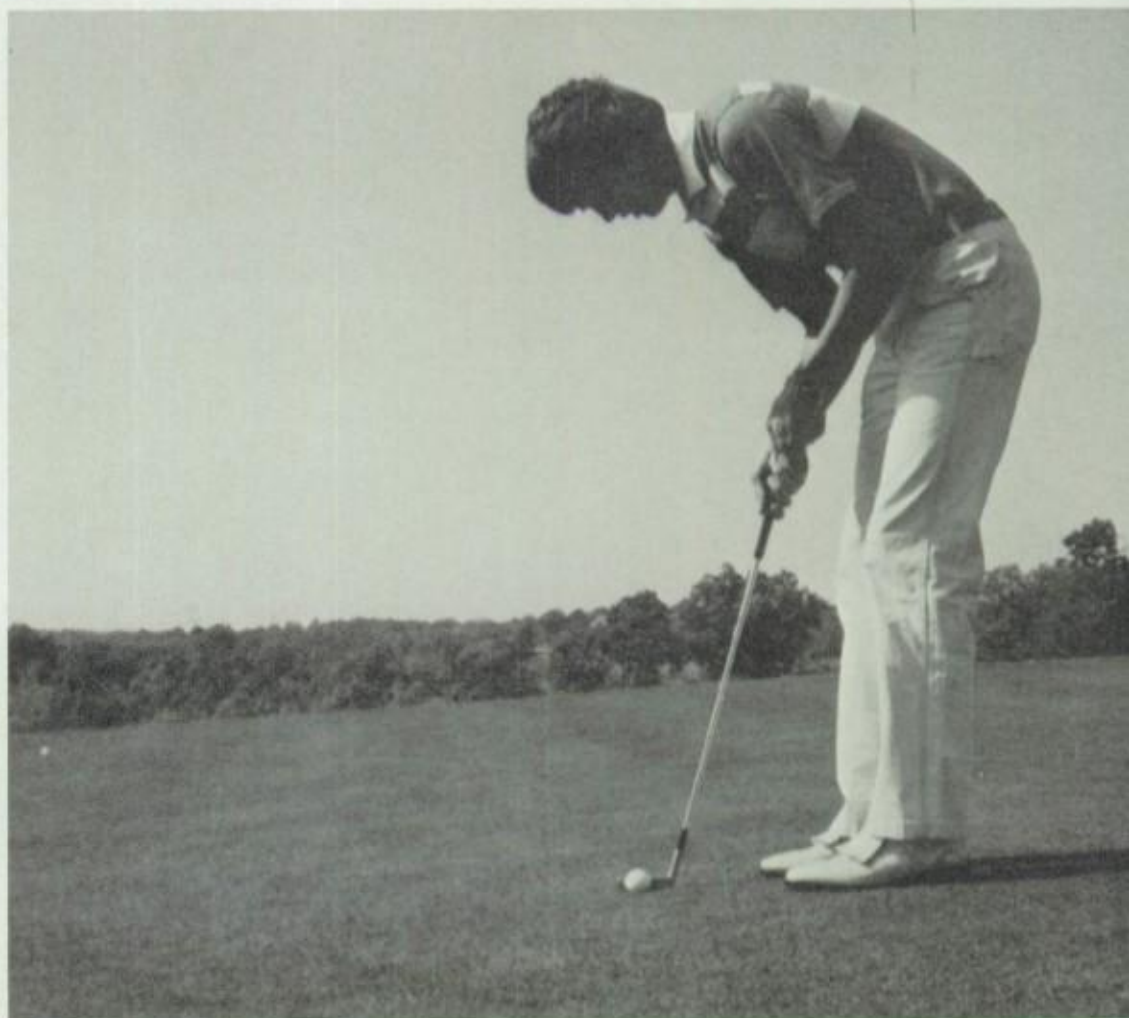

The team is divided into two groups, A and B. Before the selection of teams to be assigned, the players must play a qualifying round of golf before the meet.

Mr. Larry Sommerer is the head coach of the golf team. The coach also plays in the action as all the coaches at the meet play a round of golf, but the scores they record don't play a part of the team score.

The team has its practices and meets at the Linn County Club. Linn has held six meets at the course.

The A team has won twelve meets and placed lower in seven meets.

The B team won six meets and placed lower in one meet.

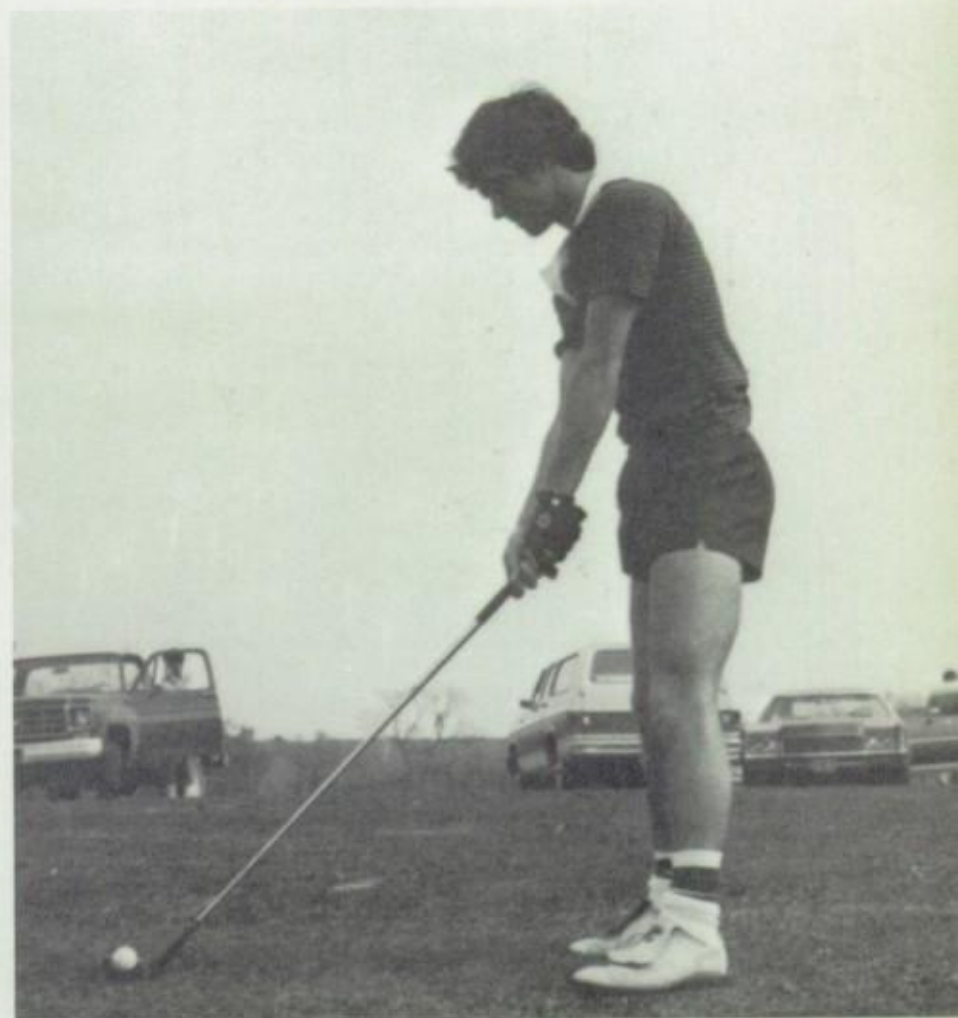

ABOVE: Steve Sandbothe takes a few practice swings as he plans to tee off at the number one tee block. The Linn County Club is comprized of a nine hole course. At golf meets different groups of players tee off at different times. Even par at the course is a 35. BELOW: Danny Lenger tries a chip shot to reach the green. Linn has hosted several golf meets at its course. Before each meet all golfers and coaches meet at the clubhouse to discuss the course rules and explain the layout of the course.

GRADUATES

Seniors Look To Future

The senior class of 1977 has been rushing through the last quarter of school. Many have been making final plans for the future. Some of these plans include going to a college or university, tech school, or going to work.

While they have been looking forward to the future, many cannot help looking back at the life they will be leaving behind. They know that life will never be the same for them. Yet the future will not wait for any of them.

SENIORS: Cynthia M. Allen, Freddy Appold, Rita Kaye Backues, Dennis Baclesse, Ruth Batten, Larry Bish.

Theresa Dudenhoeffer studies books in the library, trying to decide in which direction her future will go.

SENIORS: Rebecca Lynn Boyce, Jeanine Marie Brandt, Frances L. Branson, Donna Cavender, Connie Sue Dobsch, Steve Dudenhoeffer.

Seniors In Action

Although it takes work and dedication to keep up grades, the seniors also depend on free time to take off pressure.

School is a place to learn but it is the extra-curricular activities that make you realize how important it is to get along with people. You will be involved with people the rest of your life.

Senior Talent Is Exhibited By Many

Many students of the senior class are gifted in various ways. Throughout the past four years they have more fully developed their talents.

In the sports division, several girls and boys have represented the class in softball, basketball, cheerleading, track, football, baseball, and golf.

Seniors Attend Tech School

Students at Linn High School have the option of either taking four years of high school courses or of taking Tech School courses during their last year or two years.

This year 16 seniors were enrolled in Tech School.

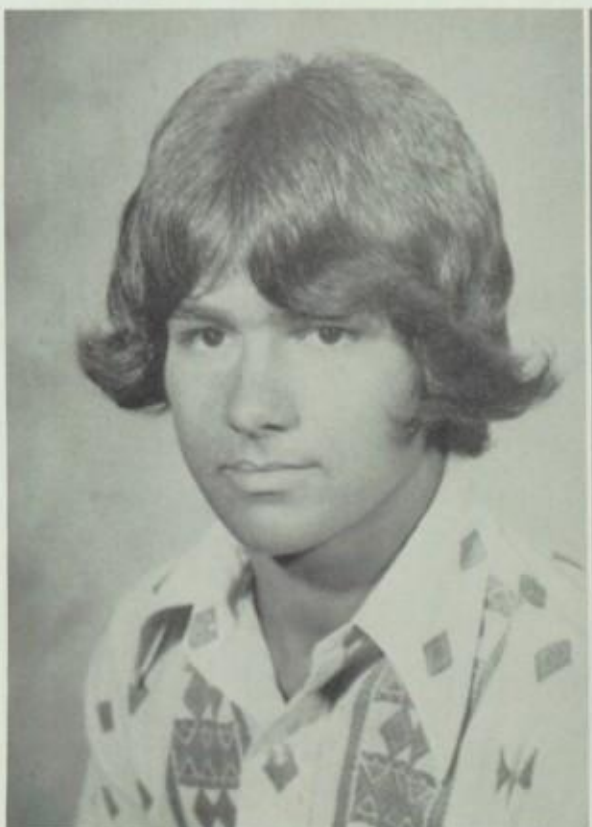

This program is an excellent opportunity to become skilled in a vocation while still in high school.

SENIORS: Judy Otto, Cindy Owens, Sallie Owens, Robert Perkins, Doug Perrey, Terry Rakes.

TOP- Rita Backues sacks up popcorn to sell.

Seniors Plan

The seniors were busy all year. Their money making goal was a trip to Florida after graduation. They were allowed three money making projects, one being concessions at the games. At the end of the year they set off to Florida.

Twelve years is a long time to a first grader but not to a graduating senior. The last year seems to take longer than the other eleven together.

For many seniors, the countdown to graduation begins early in the school year. To others it starts later-maybe Christmas or Easter.

All of the counting is exciting. The highlight of the year is when the sign goes up in the hall "Seniors have _____ days to go!" This year it went up earlier than usual because the seniors were anxious to countdown.

Seniors Count To A New Way Of Life

Every year about April 1, seniors are hit with a strange disease.

By the teachers, it's termed "senioritis," characterized by unusual loudness in the halls and during classes. A special gleam in the eye and a rising fever as the end of school nears are more symptoms.

How do the seniors term the symptoms? Certainly not as "senioritis," a term which has sunk lower than "baby" was in grade school.

More appropriately, the disease is no mystery at all. It's a feeling of very special togetherness of the Class of '77.

They talk more, and louder, because they are forced to realize that THIS IS IT! After this, their lives will all take on a different meaning.

Close friends will be torn apart; people who've seen each other EVERY DAY for twelve years will meet as strangers five years from now.

The gleam in the eye? A tear shed for things lost: security, friendship, 12 years of living . . . maybe even for school itself.

Seniors all have very special, very personal feelings about this place when they've spent so much of their time. They realize what's happening, and they are afraid of it, even as they welcome it.

Oh—the fever? That is brought on by anticipation of what's to come—senior trip, new jobs, new lives.

Yes, they can look back and forward at the same time. It's very sad, yet very exciting.

Perhaps a better team is

of this chapter, at least.

The graduating class realized their high school dream as 39 graduates and 4 sponsors left for Florida on May 25.

The trip included tours of Ft. San Marcos and St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States, and Marineland, Florida.

Daytona Beach became the highlight of the trip as the group spent 3 days and 4 nights there enjoying the sun, sand, and surf.

On their return, the new graduates spent a day in Disney World, and enjoyed a trip on Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, on the steepest incline railway in the world.

The feelings of the group as they spent these last days together were mixed. Everyone enjoyed the freedom and the beauty surrounding them, yet each knew this was "the last time" they would be this close as a class.

Graduates Fill Requirements To Face Future

ABOVE: Valedictorian Marilyn Krueger spoke briefly of the challenges facing them. RIGHT: Dr. E. R. Dalrymple presents awards and scholarships to the top fifteen percent of the class.

"Don't count the days, but make them count, for lost time is never returned," is how the class of 1977 felt on May 24 at their Commencement Exercises. The class, indeed, was feeling the loss of time.

The years must have been worthwhile for following the invocation, Dr. E. R. Dalrymple, superintendent, presented awards and scholarships.

Principal Louis Sandbothe announced the class of 1977 had fulfilled requirements for graduation. John Koenigsfeld, president of the school board, issued diplomas amid the flashes of many family cameras.

"Times of Your Lives" was then sung by the Senior Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Waggoner.

The junior year is a very exciting one. The juniors bought their class rings and had their first class play.

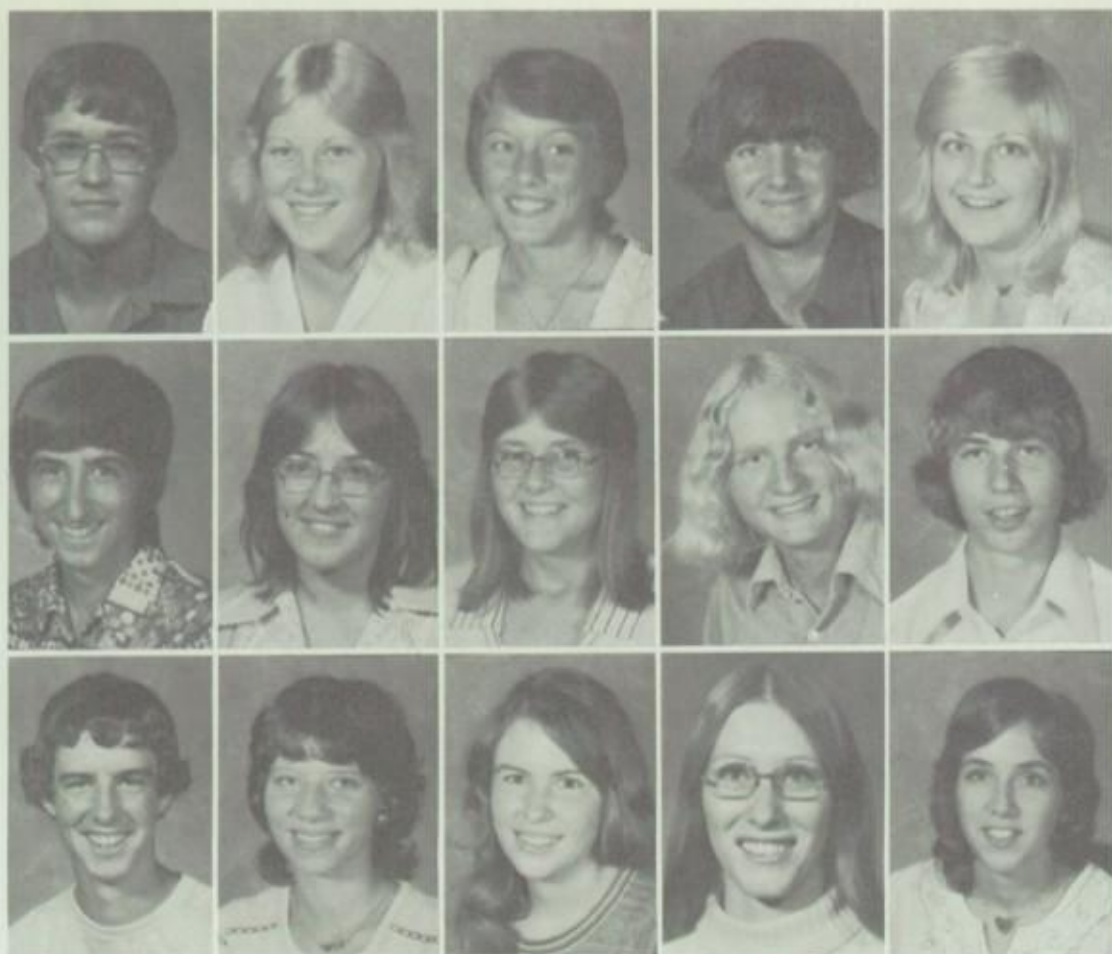

There was a lot of hard work put into getting the play together. Sets had to be built, costumes had to be found and much practice done.

Most of the juniors agreed that it was fun working together to see a goal reached.

Many juniors participated in sports and other activities such as track, basketball, baseball, golf, softball, and district and state music contest.

Sophomores Move

The school hadn't changed over the summer, but they had. They were no longer freshmen—they were sophomores.

The count down had begun for them. While they were looking forward to their junior and senior years, the sophomores approached their second year in high school with eagerness and enthusiasm.

The dictionary defines sophomore as an individual in his second year of endeavor. Well, what can a sophomore do?

A sophomore can begin to participate in the clubs and organizations of this school as officers as well as members. He can also begin to take a more active role in all school activities.

One of the best places for a sophomore to discuss what is going on in the school is in front of his locker.

It is there that a sophomore discovers what has happened over the weekend or what is going to happen in the school that day. It is there that a sophomore studies or relaxes.

The school lockers are the social meeting place of Linn High School. Each year the location of the lockers are changed, and each year the neighbors surrounding the lockers are different, too. This helps everyone become acquainted with new friends.

Eighth graders from the middle school and St. George joined together to become the class of 80. This was a part of their lives that they would always remember and look back on.

For the first time they were members of Linn High School and could now be involved in high school activities. Some freshmen joined the track team, a few became cheerleaders, and others became involved in basketball.

Together they all experienced high school: trying to shut lockers with so many coats of paint they couldn't be shut, being the last in the lunch line, and being caught in the halls when the bell rings.

The first year of high school is an important and sometimes scary year for the freshmen.

Everything is new to them, the buildings, classrooms, teachers, students, and life in general.

One of the first activities for freshmen girls is their initiation into FHA. The freshmen boys are initiated into FFA as greenhands.

Other activities for freshmen include softball, baseball, track, and basketball.

Mr. Ronald Redden teaches four hours of science at the middle school and also has two high school physical science classes. Mr. Redden is one of the new teachers at LHS this year.

Middle School Is A First At Linn

The fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades have classes in the basement of the fieldhouse this year.

A cafeteria was set up in the lobby of the fieldhouse and food was transported out from the high school cafeteria.

Two of the nine teachers at the fieldhouse are first year teachers at Linn.

There are 180 students enrolled in the middle school this year.

This is Miss Janet Maurer's third year of teaching at Linn. Miss Maurer teaches the fifth and sixth grades at the fieldhouse.

There are several organizations and activities at the Middle School this year.

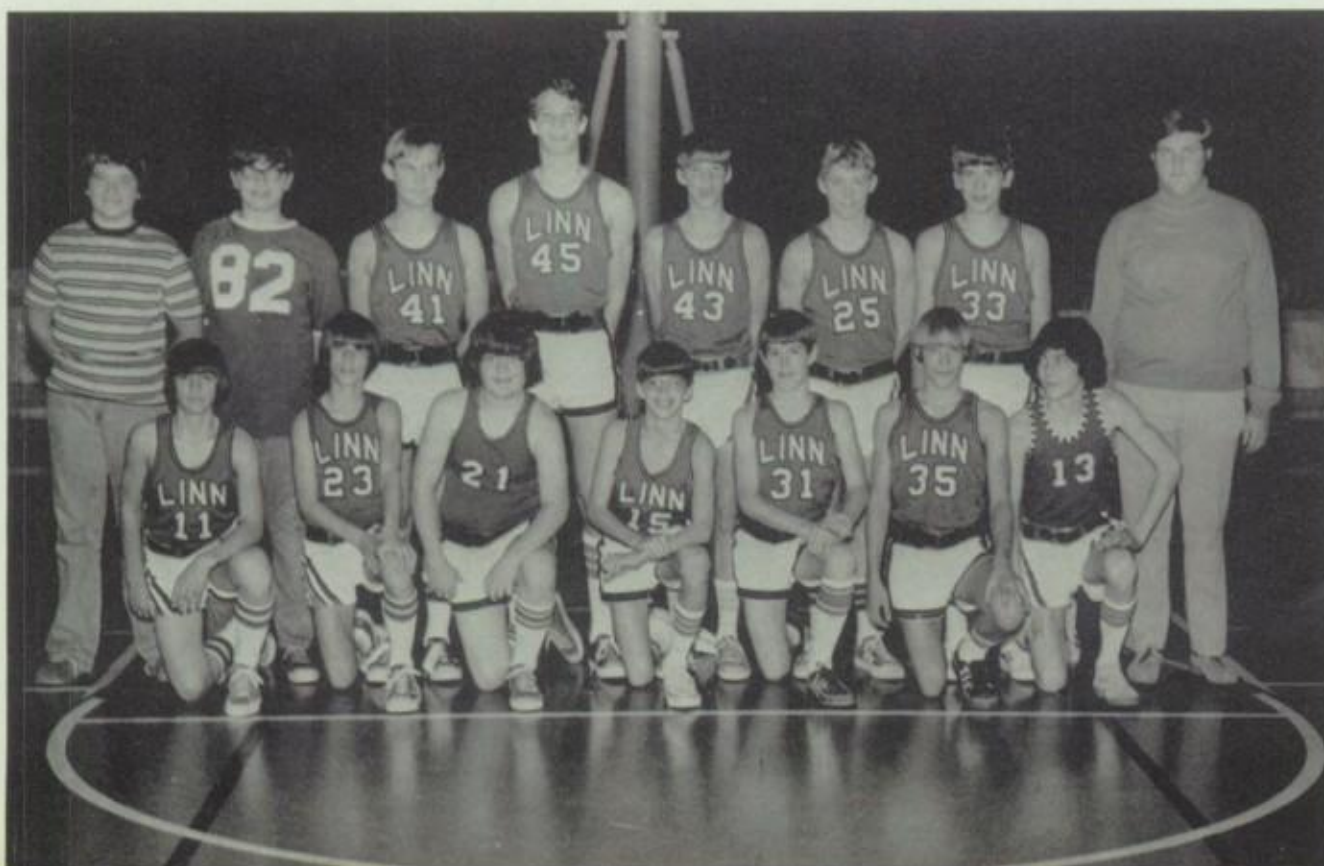

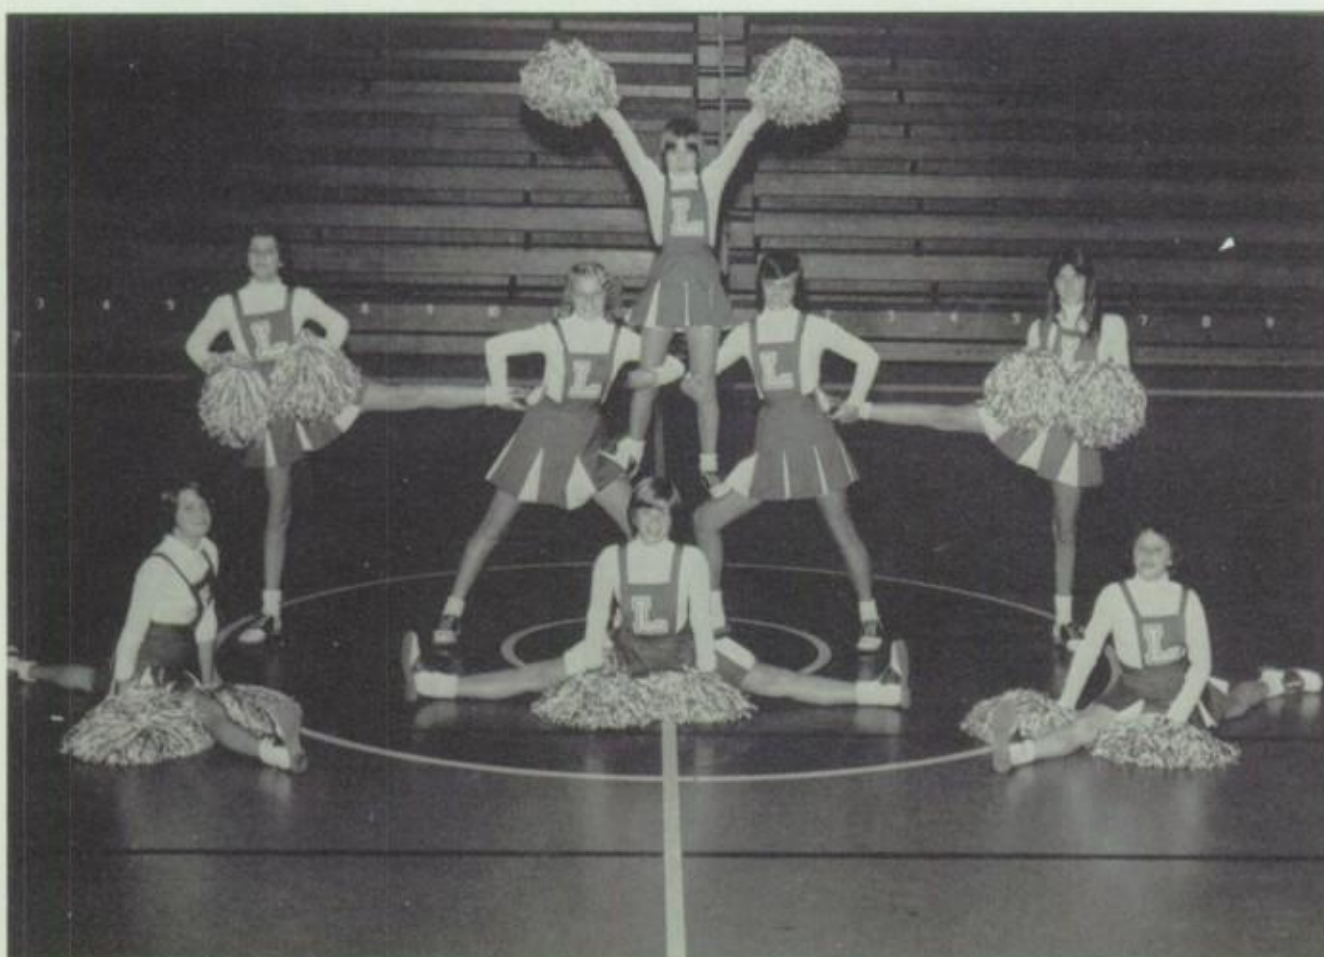

One organization is the Library Club. The members work during their study halls to perform the various library duties.

Another is the Junior High Band, which consists of 20 seventh and eighth graders.

The elementary band is made up of 30 fifth and sixth graders. Both bands are directed by Mr. Jim Campbell.

The seventh grade basketball team finished with a record of 3-2. The eighth grade team has a record of 4-4. Mr. Rodney Bossaller coached both teams.

The cheerleaders had new uniforms, a new fight song, and a new routine to work with. They cheered at all seventh and eighth grade games.

Many of the eighth graders are looking forward to starting high school next year. After eight years of being assigned classes, they will finally have some choice of classes.

The eighth grade basketball team finished with a record of 4-4. The cheerleaders and team had limited schedules and practices this year.

Tony Schulte served as president, Mike Brouk-vice president, Gail Gerschefske-secretary, and Jolene Schenherr as treasurer.

Seventh graders learn many things that make up junior high school life.

The seventh graders developed boys and girls basketball teams. The boys played a limited schedule this year and the girls had intramurals in April.

Cheerleaders began to practice for the upcoming years. Band members were grouped to form a meaningful music program.

The students look forward to one more year of experience before making the transition into high school.

Sixth Grade Joins Middle School

For the first year sixth graders had a different teacher for each class. Before, one teacher taught sixth grade in one classroom. Now there are different teachers for language arts, science, mathematics, art, and physical education.

This year's fifth graders encountered one big change. They were partially departmentalized.

Along with this change came an advantage—the reading center. During a student's extra time, he could go to the reading center and read, play games, or do homework. The center was made to educate as well as relax.

As always, along with advantages come responsibilities, and the fifth graders took their responsibilities well.

The fourth grade teachers; Mrs. David Breite, and Mrs. Lois Hendrix, discuss their classes' future plans with the third grade teachers, Mrs. Marian Kuster, and Miss Hallie Mantle.

Grade Teachers Lead

There were ten teachers employed in the elementary school to teach grades K-4. Each class had two teachers. Along with the grade teachers art, music, physical education, speech, language arts, learning disabilities, and special education teachers were employed for the 1976-77 school year. Four teachers aides were hired to help the teachers better perform their duties.

A new elementary principal was employed this year; Mr. John Metz. Mr. Metz was the principal for the middle school as well as elementary.

Another year and another step up the ladder to graduation. That time may be years away, and the fourth graders spent this past year observing, learning, and playing among themselves.

It was a year spent meeting new friends and exploring new ideas.

Under the direction of the two fourth grade teachers, Mrs. Hendrix and Mr. Breite, the fourth graders were taught the basic fundamentals of education while also being introduced into new fields of learning.

Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Waggoner co-taught fourth grade in an elementary physical education program. They, too, introduced the children to forms of exercise with a relation to dancing and music.

Pupils Eager

Second grade consisted of forty students. Each student learned new things to better his education.

In science, they studied insects, plants, and animals.

Math advanced from addition and subtraction to multiplication.

They learned the correct use of sentence punctuation and used it in writing stories and poems.

A new reading series was used and several plays were presented from this.

The two kindergarten classes are taught by Mrs. Linda Maassen and Mrs. Ann Lunsford.

The kindergarten received new Houghton-Mufflin reading and math books for the reading and math program.

The teachers made movies of the children telling stories and the other children watched them on the monitor. The children visited the fire station here in Linn and also saw dairy and turkey farming in action, as they took a trip to Don Brandt's and John Koenigsfeld's farms.

They studied transportation and toured the Aviation Department of the Linn Technical College.

At Thanksgiving the children painted Indian signs on a big paper and a Teepee was made out of it. The children read books in the Teepee.
